

Medical Quiz

Saeed Alhindi, MD, CABS, FRCSI*

A seven-year-old male patient presented with recurrent left loin pain associated with hematuria and fever of two years duration. There was no history of trauma or weight loss. Clinical examination was unremarkable. His urine microscopic examination revealed numerous white blood cells and many red blood cells. The patient had radiological tests during the work-up. Look at the radiological tests below and answer the following questions.

Supine Position

Prone Position

- Q1. Name the radiological test in this case and describe the findings.
Q2. Mention two possible diagnoses.

Answers on page 232