

MEDICAL QUIZ

Prepared by Akbar Mohsin Mohammad *
Najeeb S. Jamsheer **

Question 1.

An 18 month old infant with bilateral swelling of the neck was taken to his GP, who diagnosed tonsillitis. Five days later he was brought to hospital with the swelling as shown. Examination of the mouth revealed pus at the opening of Stensen's duct.

* Chairman Paediatric Dept
Salmaniya Medical Centre
State of Bahrain

 Chairman Radiology Dept
Salmaniya Medical Centre
State of Bahrain

- What condition is illustrated ?
- In which common illness may this be a complication ?
- What is the most common causative organism ?

Question 2.

Concern was expressed about this 22 hour old baby boy.

- What abnormality is shown ?
- What is this due to ?
- What is the prognosis for long term continuance of stool ?

Question 3.

An asymptomatic newborn baby has a chubby leg.

- a) Is it abnormal ?
- b) If so, why and with what condition may it be associated ?

Question 4.

- a) What abnormality is shown in this nine month old infant ?
- b) In what syndrome may this occur ?
- c) What is the treatment of choice ?

(Answers on page 90)